OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

Republican Victories

From the Rivers to the Ends of the Earth.

We have delayed our paper one day to give our patrons the latest news from the election on Tuesday.

The Republicans have made gains in Next House will be Republican every State heard from. New York, both city and State, have repudiated Tammany Hall and rolled up tremendious majorities for Morton for Governor, and Strong for Mayor.

Just as we go to press word comes that Hon. H. Clay Evans is probably elected Governor of Tennessee by ten thousand majority. Anderson, Gibson, Brown and McCall, four Republicans are believed to have been elected from this State to Congress.

The Lower House of Congress is claimed by both sides, but the indications point to a Republican majority.

Walker, Republican, is reported as being elected to Congress in the adjoining Virginia district.

Aside from the efforts made by the Democrats to defeat Duncan by swapping off Turney to get votes for their nominee and a few scratches on Senator, the respective parties voted their regular tickets as the votes will show.

The gentlemen who have so industriously circulated the report that the vote of Thad A. Cox in this county would unfold a scheme are anxious for some one to kick them since the returns have played smash with all their

The Herald and Tribune has pulled for the straight ticket and of course takes pardonable pride in the glorious The Republican Will Have Fifteen result.

Sympathizing with all people in distress we shall not say anything unkind of our Democratic brethren, but close this issue by introducing a tariff reformer who wants to explain just how it was done.

Mischievous Work of Cupid, Happily Consummated.

It is very strange indeed that amidst the changes of life and the desire of humanity for something new, that there is anyone thing which has been known to all ages of the race and though old ing on the simple but ever interesting as the man himself, is, sometime in and important subject, Character life, a new and holy experience to each Building. But a disquisition on love is not s ecital of events.

On Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, October 81, 1894, Rev. Dr. Wiloughby uttered the words "which strangely made a one of two;" the ocasion being the marriage of Miss Mary Hunt Baker, of Fall Branch, and Jas. J. Hamilton, of Church Hill.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE.

Dr. J. W. C. Willoughby was absent from his pulpit yesterday, being at Kingsport holding services. N. B. Remine, of the Bristol Courier, made a short but welcome visit to the college some days since. We were glad to see S. D. McCracken, of Pilot Hill, and Dr. J. D. Campbell, Alumni of the college, in our church congregation Sunday morning, October 28. Dr. Bolton and F. J. W. Brown, of Embreville, attendour morning church services yesterday and pleasantly mingled with local friends and acquaintances for a short time, dining on the hill. Rev. G. W. Baxter and wife were to leave on the early train this morning for their home in Knoxville Iowa. We were glad to have E. J. Baxter and Arthur Simpson, of Jonesbaro, with us in our Sunday morning church services October 28. Sacramental services will be held here on next Sabbath, a preparatory service which is always so interesting and important, will be held on Saturday. Rev. B. B. Bigler, of Jonesboro, we are much pleased to know, is expected to be with us on Sunday. Rev. G. W. W. Baxter delivered a very beautiful, instructive and uplifting sermon for us yesterday morning, in a very pleasing yet earnest manner. He used as his text the following weighty and beautiful words: "In Him was Further preparations will soon be begun for the interesting and pleasant event which occurrs on the evening of the 20th of next month. The senior class in the college this year is composed of three young ladies and three young gentlemen, viz: Misses Anna Truan, Katie Cecil and Essie Bradshaw, and Messrs. E. H. Broyles, G. C. Beidleman and F. E. McClure. Dr. Willoughby and E. H. Broyles went over to Fall Branch last Tuesday to be present at the marriage of Miss Mary Hunt Baker, of that place, to James Hamilton, of Kingsport which marriage occurred the following day. Dr. Willoughby was the officiating minister and Mr. Broyles was one of the attendants. The youthful bride is an alumni of Washington College and has many friends here who will entertain best wishes for her in the new life opening up before her. The members of the faculty of the college began giving popular lectures two weeks ago last Thursday evening for the benefit of the school, proposing to alternately furnish such a one every alternate week thereafter. On the night of the 26th Eck Oliver while out 'possum hunting in the lonely woods and no one to shield him but his faithful dog, found he had something up a tree, and anxious to see what it was concluded to make a fire and remain till daylight, which he did and when he found he had three coons up one tree he was overjoyed, and says it was good for him to be there; although he says it was the longest night he ever saw. Who can beat it, three coons up one tree, that weighed twenty pounds. That's right, Eck; when you find you have something good, stand by it. Weddings seems to be numerous again. On last Sunday night at the residence of 'Squire Carr, Charles Holmes and Miss Dora Carrier were married, it seems they got the drop on the boys, son, the attendants, Misses Marguerite and took a moonlight walk.
